

Second Scholarship Awarded to Ramapo College

March 20, 2009 -- We are pleased to announce to all that The Keith B. Hayes Foundation has awarded its 2nd Scholarship to a Ramapo College, Mahwah, NJ sophomore student, Scott Harrigan, who has muscular dystrophy for the Spring, 2009 semester.

In Scott's essay he wrote:

" To educate others, I need to educate myself. Entering college was difficult for me because my family did not have nearly enough money to pay tuition. Most of my senior (high school) year was spent applying for grants. I earned many grants and even received the Ramapo scholarship which has helped greatly in paying for my education. I however, have had to take out loans to cover the rest of the expenses.

I am so grateful for the opportunity to apply for the scholarship that you are offering in your son's name. This scholarship will greatly help me on my road to becoming a teacher. I can't honestly say that I will change the world. I just want to help as many people as I can. And who know? Maybe one of my students will change the world"
